Item 3: Following the offer by Jenny to arrange a Branch visit to the Stanford Hall Estate it was proposed that the best times would be after Easter and preferably a Friday afternoon. Jane offered to help Jenny with any arrangements and suggested it was best if they liaised with each other to set up the visit.

It was also noted that it was important to promote the event properly, particularly to show its usefulness to private consultants advising larger landowners as well as addressing the benefits for other Branch members.

It was therefore considered important to ask if Elaine could do a more tailored presentation to the meet the members’ interests.

Roy noted that most pro-active conservation schemes had now dried up with conservation more focused on development control issues, so anything that promotes pro-active conservation work and funding was a good thing.

Fiona also thought that it was an opportunity to increase awareness that both historic buildings and landscapes are eligible for funding.

[Action: Jane Roylance to contact Jenny regarding the visit]

Item 7: Stephen noted that he had written to Rachel asking for some clarification regarding revised Part L building regulations issues but had not yet had a reply. Rob noted that a working group had been set up in East Lindsey to develop a protocol to ensure that there was a standard approach to energy conservation issues in historic buildings.

Item 10: Jane reported that she had not yet received any applications for the Annual School Bursary Scheme and was concerned that the criteria were being too tightly interpreted when in fact the Bursary was open to all members.

[Action: Stephen to e-mail a final reminder to all Branch members]

Other items Steve reported that he had not yet written to Charles Glenn and Jane Roylance had not yet drafted an e-mail asking for any interest in the Membership Secretary’s post

Jane Roylance to draft e-mail for a Membership Secretary]

Already discussed.

9. Circulation of Information by E-Mail
Roy expressed concern that he had been receiving requests from companies to distribute their literature via the Branch e-mail system and suggested we need to have an agreed approach to these types of requests.
Fiona noted that private companies were able to buy IHBC membership addresses if they wanted to contact IHBC membership.

It was agreed that the Branch e-mail circulation should be restricted to the distribution of information that was of direct benefit to Branch members and that it should not be used to circulate general company promotional information for free, all such requests would be referred to Lydia so that it could be dealt with through the IHBC.
